47 there. And thei seeynge the vertue of the kyng, and fersnesse of his oost, turn-48 yden awey hem self fro hem. Forsothe tentis of the kyng styede vp a3einus hem, in to Jerusalem; and tentis of the kyng applieden to Judee, and to the hill of 49 Syon; and he made pees with these that weren in Bethsura. And thei wenten out of the citee, for foodis weren not to hem closid to gidre there, for sabothis of 50 the erthe weren. And the kyng toke Bethsura, and ordeinyde there keepyng, 51 for to keepe it. And he turnyde the tentis to the place of halewyng many days; and ordeynyde there balistis, and engynes, and dartis, or castyngis, of fijr, and tourmentis for to cast stoons and dartis, and scorpiouns for to sende arowis, 52 and slyngis. Forsothe and thei maden hi3 hillis, and other bi lowe places; and thei wenten warli, and ordynatli. And 41 alle men dwellynge in the lond weren mouyd togidere of the vois of multitude of hem, and ingoyng of cumpeny, and hurtlyng[x] togidere of armeris; for the oost was ful grete and strong. And Ju- 42 das and his oost nei3ide in to batel; and there fellen doun of the kyngis oost sixe hundrid men. And Eleasar, the[y] sone of 43 Saura, si3 oon of the beestis haburiowned with haburiownes of the kyng, and it was hi3 stondynge ouer othere beestis; and it was seyn to hym, that the kyng was on[z] it. And he 3af hym silf for to delyuere 44 his puple, and for to gete to hym a name euerlastynge. And he ran ther to hardili, 45 in to the myddil of legioun, and killide on the ri3t half and left[a]; and thei fellen doun fro hym hidur and thidur. And he 46 wente vndur the feet of the olifaunt, and vndur puttide hym silf ther to, and slow it; and it felle doun in to erthe on hym, and he was deed there. And thei si3en 47 the vertu of the kyng, and fersnesse[b] of his oost, and turneden awei hem silf fro hem. Forsothe tentis of the kyng stieden 48 vp a3ens hem, in to[c] Jerusalem; and tentis of the king applieden to Judee, and to the hil of Syon; and he made pees with 49 these that weren in Bethsura. And thei wenten out of the citee, for foodis weren not to hem closid togidere there, for the sabatis of erthe weren. And the kyng 50 took Bethsura, and ordeynede there kepyng, for to kepe it. And he turnede the 51 tentis to the place of halewyng many daies; and ordeynede there arblastis, and engynes, and dartis[d] of fier, and turmentis for to caste stoonys and dartis, and scorpiens for[e] to schete[f] arows, and slyngis. Forsothe and thei maden engynes a3ens 52 the[g] engynes of hem, and fou3ten many daies. Forsothe metis weren not in the 53 citee, for that it was the seuenthe 3eer;

47 hem gretely. And it pleside to gidre to hem in to Alysaundre, for he was to hem prince of wordis of pees, and to 48 hym thei baren help in alle days. And kyng Alisaundre gadride a grete oost, and mouyde tentis a3einus Demetrie.
49 And the kyngis ioynyde bateil, and the oost of Demetrie fledde; and Alisaundre 50 pursuede hym, and lay vpon hym; and the bateil was ful stronge, til the sunne wente doun, and Demetrie fledde in that 51 day. And Alisaundre sente to Ptholome, kyng of Egypt, legatis after these wordis, 52 sayinge, For Y am gon a3ein in to my rewme, and satte in seete of my faders; and Y haue weldide princehode, and haue broken togidre Demetrie, and haue wel-
53 dide oure cuntree; and haue ioynyde with hym fi3t, and he is broken to gidre and his tentis of vs, and we saten in sete 54 of his rewme. And nowe ordeyne we to gidre frenship, and 3eue to me thi dou3ter wijf, and Y shal be thi dou3ter hosbond; and Y shal 3eue to thee 3iftis, and 55 to hir dignitee. And kyng[n] Ptolome answerde, saiynge, Blessid the day in whiche thou turnedist a3ein to the lond of thi fadris, and hast sitten in sete of 56 the rewme 'of hem[o]. And nowe Y shal do to thee whiche thingus thou hast the wallis of Jerusalem; and for to make strong in cumpas, spensis schulen be 3ouun of the kyngis rent[p], for to make out wallis in Judee. As Jonathas and 46 the puple herde these wordis, thei bileueden not to hem, nether resseyueden hem; for thei hadden mynde of the greet malice that he hadde don in Israel, and hadde troblid hem greetli. And it pleside to- 47 gidere to hem in to[q] Alisaundre, for he was to hem prince of wordis of pees, and to hym thei baren help in alle daies. And 48 kyng Alisaundre gaderide a greet oost, and mouyde tentis a3ens Demetrie. And 49 the kyngis ioyneden batel, and the oost of Demetrie fledde; and Alisaundre pursuede him, and lai on hem[r]; and the batel was 50 ful strong, til the sunne wente doun, and Demetrie felle[s] in that dai. And Ali- 51 saundre sente to Tolome, king of Egipt, legatis bi these wordis, and seide, For Y 52 cam a3en in to my rewme, and sat in the[t] seete of my fadris; and Y haue weldid princehod, and Y haue al to-brokun Demetrie, and[u] haue weldid oure cuntrei; and 53

64 heuy to hym of eny resoun. And it is don, that thei that axiden, or apeliden hym, sawen his glorie that was prechid, and hym keuerd with purpre, fledden 65 alle. And the kyng magnyfiede hym, and wrote hym amonge the first freendis, and he putte him duyk, and parcener, or 66 felawe, of princehode. And Jonathas turnyde aȝein in to Jerusalem, with pees 67 and gladnesse. In the hundrid ȝeer and fyue and sixtithe, Demetrie, sone of Demetrie, came fro Crete in to the lond of 68 his fadris. And kyng Alisaundre herde, and is maad ful sorewful, and turnide 69 aȝein in to Antioche. And Demetrie ordeynide Appolonye duyk, that was souereyn to Seleserie; and gadride his at Tolomaida, as kyngis in greet glorie. And kyng Alisaundre wroot to Jonathas, 59 that he schulde come aȝens hym. And 60 he wente with glorie to Tolomaida, and mette there twei[y] kyngis, and ȝaue to hem myche[z] siluer, and gold, and ȝiftis; and foond grace in the siȝte of hem. And men 61 of Israel, ful of venym, camen togidere aȝens hym, wickid men, axynge aȝens hym, and the kyng took no[a] tent to hem; and comaundide Jonathas for to be 62 maad nakid of his clothis, and hym for to be clothid in purpur; and thei diden so. And the king settide hym for to sitte with hym, and seide to hise princis, Go ȝe out 63 departid, to alle doynge sacrifice in Jerusalem, for these thingus that the kyng toke byfore of hem by alle ȝeeris, and for 35 fruytis of erthe, and of applis. And other thingus that perteyneden to vs, of tithis, and tributis, fro this tyme we forȝeuen to hem; and the playn places of salt makyng, and the crownes that weren 36 born to vs, alle thingus we graunten to the peplis; and no thing of these shal be voide, fro this and in to al tyme.

37 Nowe therfore bisie ȝe for to make ensaumple of these thingus, and be it ȝouen to Jonathas, and be putt in the holy 38 mount, and in the holy place. And kyng Demetrie seynge, that the lond was stille in his siȝt, and nothing aȝein stondeth hym, left alle his oost, eche man in to his place, out taken the straunge oost, that he drewȝ fro ylis[k] of heithen men; and enmyes to it, al the oost of his 39 fadris. Forsothe sum[l] Trifon was of the[m] partis of Alisaundre bifore, and he seeȝ for al the oost grucchide aȝeinus Demetrie; and he wente to Emacuel Arabyam, that nurishide Antiochus, sone 40 of Alisaundre. And he[n] sate niȝ to hym, that he shulde bitake hym to hym, for to regne in stede of his fadir; and tolde[nn] out to hym, hou grete thingus Demetrie hadde don, and enmytees of his oostis aȝeinus hym; and he dwelte there many 41 days. And Jonathas sente to kyng Demetrie, that he shulde caste hem out, that weren in the[o] heeȝ rocke in Jerusalem, and whiche weren in helpis, or strengthis, for thei inpungneden Yrael.
42 And Demetrie sente to Jonathas, sayinge, Not oonli this Y shal do to thee and to thi folc, bot Y shal make thee noble by glorie, and thi folk, whan it 43 shal be couenable. Nowe therfore riȝtly thou shalt do, ȝif thou shalt sende men in to helpe of me, for al myn oost wente 44 awey. And Jonathas sente to hym three thousand of strong men, to Antioche; of hem bi alle ȝeeris, and for fruytis of the[n] erthe, and of[nn] applis. And other[o] 35 thingis that perteyneden to vs, of tithis, and tributis, fro this tyme we forȝyuen to hem; and the pleyn places of salt makyng, and the corouns that weren borun to vs, alle thingis we graunten to hem; and no 36 thing of these schal be voide, fro this[oo] and in to al tyme. Now therfor bisie ȝe for 37 to make ensaumple of these thingis, and be it ȝouun to Jonathas, and be put in the holi mount, and in the solempne place. And kyng Demetrie siȝ, that the lond was 38 stille in his siȝt, and that no thing aȝenstood hym, and lefte al[p] his oost, ech man in to[pp] his place, outakun the straunge oost, that he drow fro ilis of hethene men; and alle the oostis of his fadris weren enemyes to hym. Forsothe oon[q] Trifon was of the 39 partis of Alisaundre bifore, and he siȝ that al the oost grutchide aȝens Demetrie; and he wente to Machuel Arabian, that nurschide Antiok, the sone of Alisaundre. And 40 he maad greet instaunce to hym, that he schulde bitake him to hym, for to regne in stide of his fadir; and telde out to hym, hou grete thingis Demetrie hadde don, and the enemytees of his oostis aȝens hym; and he dwelte there many daies. And 41 Jonathas sente to kyng Demetrie, that he schulde caste out hem, that weren in the hiȝ tour in Jerusalem, and whiche weren in strengthis[r], for thei inpugnyden Israel. And Demetrie sente to Jonatas, and seide, 42 Not oneli this Y schal do to thee, and thi folc, but Y schal make thee noble bi glorie, and thi folc, whanne it schal be couenable. Now therfor riȝtli thou schalt 43 do, if thou schalt sende men in to help to me, for al myn oost wente awei. And 44 Jonathas sente to hym thre thousynde of stronge men, to Antiochie; and thei camen to the kyng, and the kyng delitide in the comyng of hem. And there camen togi- 45 dere that weren of the citee sixe score thousynde of men, and wolden sle the 45 And there camen to gidre that weren of the citee an hundrid and twenti thousand of men, and wolden slea the kyng.

46 And the kyng fledde in to the halle. And thei that weren of the citee ocupieden the wayes of the citee, and bigunne for 47 to fiȝte. And the kyng clepide Jewis in to help, and alle camen togidre to hym; 48 and alle ben scatered by the citee, and slewen in that day an hundrid thousand of men. And thei brenten the citee, and token many spuylis in that day, and 49 delyuerden the kyng. And thei sawen, that weren of the citee, that Jewis hadden taken the citee as thei wolden; and ben maad vnstedefast in her soule, and crieden to the kyng with preyers, say-

52 many spuylis. And kyng Demetrie sittith in sete of his rewme, and the lond 53 was stille in his siȝt. And he leeȝide alle thingus, what euere he saide, and alyenyde hym fro Jonathas, and he[p] ȝeeldide[q] not to hym vp benyficis, that he hadde ȝouen to hym, and traueilide 54 hym gretely. After these thingus Trifon turnyde aȝein, and Antiochus with hym, a ȝunge chijld; and regnide[r], and puttide 55 on to hym a diademe. And alle oostis ben gadrid to hym, whiche kyng Demetrie scatride; and thei fouȝten aȝeinus hym, and he fleiȝ, and turnyde backis.
56 And Trifon toke beestis and weeldide 57 Antioche. And Antiochus the ȝunge wrote to Jonathas, sayinge, I ordeyne to thee presthod, and I ordeyne thee on foure citees, that thou be of the kyngis kyng. And the kyng fledde in to the 46 halle And thei that weren of the citee ocupieden the weies of the citee, and bigunnen for to fiȝte. And the kyng clepide 47 Jewis in to help, and alle camen togidere to hym, and alle weren scaterid bi the citee; and slowen in that dai an hundrid 48 thousynde of men, and brenten the citee, and token many spuylis in that dai, and delyueriden the kyng. And thei siȝen, 49 that weren of the citee, that Jewis hadden take the citee as thei wolden; and thei weren maad vnstidefast in her soule, and crieden to the king with preieris, and seiden, ȝyue to vs riȝthondis, and ceesse 50

22 These same thingus ben wryten to kyng Demetrie, and Attalus, and Araba, and 23 Arsaces, and in to alle cuntrees, and Sampsame, and Spartanyes, and Delo, and Myde, and Synone, and Carie, and Samyum, and Pamphiliam, and Lysiam, and Alacarnasum, and Rodum, and Phaselida, and Reo, and Sydon, and Arado, and Gortynam, and Gnydum, and Cypre, 24 and Cyrenen. Forsothe ensaumple of these thei han wryten to Symont, prince 25 of prestis, and to peple of Jewis. Forsothe Antiochus appliede tentus in Doram the secounde tyme, mouynge to it euermore hondis, and makyng engynes; and he closide to gidre Trifon, lest he 26 wente out. And Symont sente to hym two thousand of chosen men, in to help, and syluer, and gold, and plenteuouse 27 vessels; and he wolde not take. Bot he brake alle thingus that he couenantide with hym byfore, and alyenyde hym self 28 fro hym. And he sente to hym Athenobius, oon of his freendis, for to treete with hym, sayynge, ȝe holden Joppen and[i] Gazaram, and the heeȝ rocke that is in

As 10 and Moises preiede to the Lord, and fier cam doun fro heuene, and wastide the brent sacrifice; as and Salomon preiede, and fier cam doun fro heuene, and wastide the brent sacrifice. And Moises seide, For 11 that it is not clensid, that was for synne, and it was wastid. Also and Salomon in 12 eiȝte daies made solempne the halewyng. Forsothe and these same thingis weren 13 put yn[m] discripciouns, and exposiciouns of Neemye; and as he makide[n] a litle bible, and gaderide bookis of cuntrees, and bookis[o] of profetis, and of Dauid, and epistlis of kyngis, and of[p] ȝiftis. maner, that thei be disseyued, that bitoken her thingis to be kept to the place and temple, that bi al the world was onourid for his worschipyng, and holynesse. And 13 he seide, for these thingis that he hadde in maundementis of the kyng, that in al kynde tho schulden be borun to the kyng.
Forsothe in the dai ordeyned Heliodore 14

29 God knowen; and forsothe by Goddis vertu he lay doumbe, and pryued of al 30 hope and helthe. Forsothe these blessiden the Lord, for he magnyfied his place; and the temple, that a lytil byfore was ful of dreed and noyse, the Lord almiȝty appeerynge, is fulfillid with 31 ioye and gladnesse. Thanne forsothe sume of Heliodoris frendis preyeden anoon Onye, for to inclepe the Heeȝist, and for to ȝeue lyf to hym, for he was 32 sette in the last spirit. Sothely the prest ordeyned in strijf[v]. And these so- 22 theli clepiden almiȝti God to help, that thingis takun in kepyng schulden be kept in al holynesse, to hem that hadden put tho in kepyng. Forsothe Heliodore per- 23 formyde that thing, that he hadde demyd, and he was present with his knyȝtis in the same place aboute the treserie. But 24 the spirit of almyȝti God made greet euydence of his schewyng, so that alle that weren hardi for to obeie to hym, fellen doun bi vertu of God, and weren conuertid in to feblenesse, and inward drede. For 25 an[w] hors apperide to hem, and hadde a dredeful sittere, ourned with beste hilyngis; and he with fersnesse[x] ruyschide the formere feet to Heliodore; forsothe he that sat on hym, semyde for to haue goldun armeris. Also twei othere ȝonge 26 men apperiden, faire in vertu, beste in glorie, and faire in clothing, that stoden aboute hym, and on ech side scourgiden hym with out ceessyng, and beeten with many woundis. Sodenli forsothe Helio- 27

MATTHEW.

Here begynneth the prolouge on Mathew[a].

MATHEW of Jewerye born, as he is 'putt first[b] in ordre, so first he wrote the gospel in Jewes langage, whas cleepyng to God was from peplicanis dedis; he takynge bifore the bygynnyng is[c] of twey[d], Abraham and Dauid, in the generacioun of Crist, of oon, that is, Abraham, of the whiche the first circumcisioun was in fleshe, of an other, Dauith, whas electioun was efter herte. Of bothe fadris forsothe Crist was bore. And so the noumbre of fourtene thries putte, he strecchynge forth the bygynnyng fro feyth[e] of bileuynge, that was in Abraham, in to the tyme of chesynge, that was in Dauith, and dressynge fro the[f] chesyng anoon in to the day of transmygracioun, and diffynynge fro the day of transmygracioun anoon in to Crist, he shewith the generacioun of the[g] cummynge of Crist fulfillid, other passynge in renninge, that he, maakynge good bothe to the noumbre and to the tyme, bothe shulde shewe hym silf whiche[h] he were, and, in hym silf mynystrynge the work of God, also in hem, whas kynred he putte[i], shulde not denye the witnesse of Crist workynge[k] fro the bygynnyng[l]. Of alle whoche thingis the tyme, the ordre, the noumbre, the[m] disposicioun, other[n] the resoun[o], that Crist is God, that is necessarie to the feith, the whiche was maad of a[p] womman, maad vnder lawe, bore of a mayde[q], suffride in fleshe, al thing ficchide in the cros, that he ouercommynge thilke[r] thingis in hym silfe, rysynge in body, bothe the[s] name of the fadir in fadris to the sone, and sones[t] name to the fadir restoringe in sones, with outen bygynnyng, with oute eendynge, shewynge the fadir to be oon with hym, for he is oon. In the whiche[u] gospel it is profitable to men desyrynge God, so to knowe the first, the mydmeste[v], other[w] the last, that thei, redynge bi alle thingis, vndirstonde bothe the clepynge of the apostil[x], and[y] the work of the gospel, and the loue[z] of God kennynge in fleshe, and thei biknowe[a] in hym, in the whiche thei beth[b] knowe, and desijryth[c] to knowe. To vs forsothe it was to stodye of preuynge, bothe to take the feith of thing do, and not to be stille to men sechynge bisiliche the ordynance of God worchynge to be vndirstonde.

Here bigynneth the Newe Testament; a prolog on Matheu[a].

Matheu that was of Judee, as he is set first in ordre[b] of the gospelleris, so he wroot first the gospel in Judee, and fro the office of a tolgaderer he was clepid to God. Whanne this Matheu hadde prechid first the gospel in Judee, and wolde go to hethene men, he wroot first the gospel in Ebreu, and lefte it to[c] mynde to[d] Cristen men of the Jewis, fro whiche[e] he departide bodili; for as it was[f] nedeful, that the gospel were prechid to the confermyng of feith, so it was[g] nedeful, that it were writen also aȝens eretikis. Thouȝ manye men han write the gospel, foure oonli, that is, Matheu, Mark, Luyk, and Joon, han the witnessyng of autorite. For thei tellen the feith of the Trynyte, bi foure partis of the world; and thei ben as foure wheelis in the foure horsid carte of the Lord, that berith[h] hym aboute bi preching[i] of the gospel; and mankynde that was slayn bi foure dethis, shulde be qwikenyd bi the prechyng of hem. And therfor the gospels of othere[k] writers fellen doun, and ben not resceyued, for the Lord nolde[l], that the forseid noumbre were destried, for the vertu of sacrament. Also the foure gospelleris ben vndirstonden bi foure figuris of goostli preuyte. Matheu is vndurstondun by man, for he duellith principali aboute the manhod of Crist; Mark is vndurstondun bi a lioun, for he tretith of Cristis risyng aȝen; Luke is vndirstonden bi a calf, and tretith of presthod; Joon is vndurstondun bi an egle, and writeth hiȝlier the[m] sacramentis ether[n] hooli priuytees of the Godhed. Forsothe Crist, whom thes gospelleris discryuen, was a man borun of the virgyn; he was a calf, in offryng, ether[o] diynge on the cros; he was a lioun, in risynge aȝen; and he was an egle, in ascencioun. Ethir the manhed of Crist is signified in man, presthod is signified in the calf, rewme is signified in the lioun, and the sacrament of Godhed[p] is signified in the egle; that is, by thes[q] foure beestis it is declarid, that Jhesu Crist is God and man, king and prest.

sothe Y say to ȝou, for why[r] euery[s] man that seeth a womman for[t] to coueite hire, now he[u] hath do lecherie by[v] hire in his 29 herte. That ȝif thi riȝt eiȝe sclaundre thee, pulle it out, and cast it[w] fro thee; for it speedith to thee, that oon of thi membris perishe, than[x] al thi body go in to helle.
30 And ȝif thi riȝt hond sclaundre[y] thee, kitt it awey, and cast it[z] fro thee; for it spedith to thee, that oon of thi membris perishe, than that al thi[a] body go in to helle.
31 Forsothe it is said, Who euere shal leeue

And the cumpanyes wondreden, sayinge, It aperede neuere so 34 in Yrael. But the Pharisees saiden, In the prince of deuelis[g] he castith out deuelis[g]. 35 And Jhesus compaside aboute[h] alle citees and castels, techynge in synagogis[i] of hem, and prechynge the gospel of kyngdam[k], and helynge al ‘languyshynge, or ache[l], 36 and al siknesse. Forsothe Jhesus, siynge cumpanyes, hadde[m] rewthe of[n] hem; for thei weren traueilid, and liggynge as sheep 37 nat hauynge a sheperde. Thanne he saide to his disciplis, Sothely[o] ‘there is[p] moche 38 rype corne[q], but fewe werkmen. Therfore preye ȝe[r] the lord of the rijpe corn, that he sende workmen into[s] his[t] rijp corn.

And Jhesus seide, Bileuen ȝe, that Y mai do this thing to ȝou? Thei seien[d] to him, ȝhe, Lord. Thanne he touchide 29 her iȝen, and seide, Aftir ȝoure feith be it doon to ȝou. And the iȝen of hem 30 were opened. And Jhesus ‘thretenede hem, and seide, Se ȝe, that no man wite. But thei ȝeden out, and diffameden[e] hym 31 thorou al that lond. And whanne thei 32 weren gon out, loo! thei brouȝten to hym a doumbe man, hauynge a deuel. And whanne the deuel was cast out, the 33 doumb man spak. And the puple wondride[f], and seide, It hath not be say thus in Israel. But the Farisees seiden, 34 In the prince of deuelis he castith out deuelis. And Jhesus wente ‘aboute alle[g] 35 the[h] ‘citees and castels[i], techinge in the[k] synagogis of hem, and prechynge the gospel of the kyngdom, and helynge euery langour and euery sijknesse. And 36 he siȝ the puple, and hadde reuthe on hem; for thei weren trauelid, and liggynge as scheep not hauynge a scheepherde. Thanne he seide to hise disci- 37 plis, Sotheli there is myche ripe corn, but fewe werk men. Therfor preye ȝe 38 the lord of the ripe corn, that he sende werke men in to his ripe corn.

treuly it is neede, that sclaundris come; netheles woo to 'the ilk[k] man by whom a[l] 8 sclaundre cometh. Forsothe ȝif thin hond or[m] thi foot sclaundre[n] thee, kitt 'it of[o], and kast[p] awey fro thee. It is good to thee to[q] entre in to lyf 'feble, other croked[r], than hauynge two[s] hondis or[t] two feet to be sent in to euerlastynge fijr. 9 And ȝif thin eiȝe sclaundre[u] thee, pulle it out, and cast[v] awey fro thee. It is good to thee with oon eiȝe to[w] entre in to lyf, than hauynge two[x] eiȝen to be sente in to[y] 'fijr 10 of helle[z]. Se ȝe, that ȝe dispise nat oon of these[a] litile. Trewly I seie to ȝou, that[b] the angelis of hem in heuenes seen euermore[c] the face of my fadir that[d] is in 11 heuenes. Forsothe mannys sone came for[e] 12 to saue that thing that perishide. What semeth[f] to ȝou? ȝif 'ther weren to summan[g] an hundrid sheep[h], and oon of hem 'shall erre[i], wher[k] he shal nat leeue nynty and nyne in desert[l], and shal go for[m] to seeke 13 that[n] that erride? And if it befalle[o] that he fynde[p] it, trewly I seie to ȝou, for he shal ioye theron more than of[q] nynty and 14 nyne that erriden nat. So it is nat will[r] before[s] youre fadir that[t] is in heuenes[u], 15 that oon of these[v] litil perishe. Forsoth ȝif thi brother 'shal synne[w] in[x] thee, go thou, and reproue[y] hym, 'or snybbe[z], bitwixe[a] thee and hym aloone; ȝif[b] he 'shal heere[c] thee, thou hast wonnen thi brother. 16 Trewly ȝif he 'shal nat heere[d] thee, take[e] with thee oon or two[f], that euery[g] word stonde[h] in the mouthe of two or[i] three 17 witnessis. witen, that[s] somer is niȝ; so `and ȝee[t] whenne ȝee shulen se alle these thingis, witith[u] that it is niȝ, and[v] in the ȝatis. Trewly I seie to ȝow, for this generacioun shal nat passe, til that[w] alle thingis `be don[x]; heuene and erthe shulen passe, but my wordis shulen nat passe. Forsothe of thilk[y] day and hour no man woot, nether angelis[z] of[a] heuenes, no[b] but the fadir alone. Forsothe as it was in the dayes of Noye, so shal be and[c] the comyng of mannes sone. For as in the days bifore the grete flood, thei weren etynge and drinkynge, weddynge and takynge to weddynge, til in to that[d] day, in the[e] whiche Noe entride in to the ship; and thei knewen nat, til that[f] the grete flood came, and toke alle men, so shal be the cummyng of mannes sone. Thanne two[g] shulen be in a feeld, oon shal be taken to[h], and `an other left, or forsaken[i]; two[k] wymmen shulen be gryndynge in oo[l] querne[m], oon shal be taken to[n], and `the other[o] forsaken[p]; two[q] in oo[r] bed, `the toon[s] shal be taken to[t], and the[u] tother[v] forsaken[w]. Therfore wake ȝee, for ȝee witen nat in what houre ȝoure[x] Lord `is to[y] cumme. Sothely that thing wite ȝee, for ȝif the housbonde man wiste in what houre the theef `were to[z] cumme, trewly he shulde wake, and suffre nat his hous to be vndirmynyd[a]. And[b] therfore and[c] `ȝee be[d] redy, for[e] in what hour `ȝee gessen nat[f], mannes sone `is to[g] cumme. Who gessist thou is a trew[h] seruaunt and[i] prudent, `or war[k], whom his lord ordeynyde on his meynee, that he ȝeue to[l] hem mete in tyme? Blissid is that seruaunt, whom his lord, whenne he shal[m] cumme, shal

And thei ȝauen hym[o] for[p] to drinke wiyn meyngid[q] with galle; and whenne he had tastid, 35 he wolde nat drinke. Sothely after that[r] thei hadden crucified hym, thei departiden his clothis, sendynge lot, that it[s] shulde be fulfillid[t], that[u] is seid by the prophete, seyinge, Thei departiden[v] to hem my[w] clothis, and on[x] my cloth[y] thei senten[z] lot. 36 37 And thei sittynge kepten hym; and thei puttiden[a] on his heued the cause of hym wryten, This is Jhesus 'of Nazareth[b], 38 kyng[c] of Jewis. Thanne two[d] theeues ben[e] crucified with him, oon on the riȝt half, 39 and oon[f] on the left half. Forsothe men passynge forth blasfemyden hym, moou- 40 ynge her heuedis[g], and seyinge, 'Vath, or fie[h], 'to thee[i], that distroyist the temple of God, and in the thridde day 'bildist it aȝein[k]; saue thou thi self; ȝif thou art the sone of God, cume doun[l] of the crosse. 41 Also[m] and princis[n] of prestis scornynge, 42 with scribis and eldre men, seiden, He made other men saaf, he may nat make hym self saaf; ȝif he is kyng[o] of Yrael, cume he nowe[p] doun fro[q] the crosse, and 43 we bileuen to hym; he[r] trustith in God, delyuere he hym nowe, ȝif he wole; forsothe[s] he seide, For[t] I am 'Goddis sone[u]. 44 'Forsothe and[v] the[w] theeuys, that weren crucified with hym, puttiden[x] to hym with 45 repreue the same thing. Sothely fro the sixte hour dercnessis ben[y] maad on[z] al the 46 erthe[a], 'til to[b] the nynethe hour. And about the nynthe houre Jhesus criede with his cross. And thei camen in to a place 33 that is clepid Golgatha, that is, the place of Caluarie. And thei ȝauen hym to 34 drynke wyne meynd[k] with galle; and whanne he hadde tastid, he wolde not drynke. And[l] aftir that thei hadden cru- 35 cified hym, thei departiden[ll] his clothis, and kesten[m] lotte, to fulfille that is seid bi the prophete, seiynge, Thei partiden[n] to hem my clothis, and on my clooth thei kesten[o] lott. And thei seten, and kepten 36 him; and setten[p] aboue his heed his 37 cause writun, This is Jhesu of Nazareth, kyng of Jewis. Thanne twey[pp] theues 38 weren crucified with hym, oon on the riȝthalf, and oon on the lefthalf. And 39 men that passiden forth blasfemeden hym, mouynge her heedis, and seiynge, 40 Vath[q] to thee, that distriest the temple of God, and in the thridde dai bildist it aȝen; saue thou thi silf; if thou art the sone of God, come doun of the cross[r]. Also and princis of prestis scornynge, 41 with scribis and elder men, seiden, He 42 made[s] othere men saaf, he may not make hym silf saaf; if he is kyng of Israel, come he now[t] doun fro the crosse, and we bileuen to hym; he tristide in God; 43 delyuer he hym now, if he wole; for he seide, That Y am Goddis sone. And the 44 theues, that weren crucified with hym, vpbreididen[tt] hym of the same thing. But 45 fro the sixte our derknessis weren maad on al the erthe, to[u] the nynthe our. MARK, the gospeller, was the chosun seruaunt of God, and the goostli sone of Petre in baptym, and the disciple in[b] Goddis word; he[c] mynystride preesthod in Israel, that is, among Jewis, and was of the lynage of Leuy bi fleisch, and he was conuertid to the feith of Crist, and wroot the gospel in Ytalie, that is, the[cc] cuntrei of Rome, and schewide[d] in the gospel, what he ou3te to his kyn and to Crist. Mark bigynneth at the sendyng of Joon Baptist, and tellith not the natiuite of Crist bi fleissche, but fro Cristis baptym, whanne he was ful man, he tellith of his fastyng bi fourti daies, and of his temptyng in desert, hou the deuel temptide hym, and how weilde beestis weren gaderid there, and hou hooli aungels camen, and serueden Crist aftir his temptacioun, and ouercomyng therof. Aftir 'he hadde resseyued Cristen feith[e], he kittide[f] of his thombe, that he schulde be hadde repreuable to preesthod, that is, be vnhable to be preest in the gospel, but the[g] chesyng 'that was[h] bifor ordeyned consentynge to the feith, my3te do so myche, that he loste not in the[i] werk of word[k], that is, in prechyng of Goddis word, that that[l] he disseruede bifor in kyn, that is, as he was a prest bi kyn in the elde lawe among Jewis, so he was a prest in the gospel among Cristen men. For he was bischop of Alisaundre; and bi alle thingis it was his werk to kunne profesies, and to dispose in 'hym silf[m] the seiyngis[n] of the gospel, and to knowe in hym silf the techyng of lawe[o], and to vndurstonde the[p] dyuyn kynde of the Lord in fleisch; whiche thingis it bihoueth to be sou3t first in vs[q].

14 he[i] eftsoone[k] clepinge to[l] the cumpanye `of peple[m], seide to hem, ȝe alle heere[n] me, 15 and vndirstonden[o]. No thing with outen man is entringe in to him, that may defoule him; but tho thingis that[p] comen forth of man[q], `tho it ben that defoulen a 16 man[r]. Forsoth if[s] ony man haue[t] eeris 17 `of heeringe[u], heere he. And whanne he hadde entrid in to an hous, fro the cumpany `of peple[v], his disciplis axiden him the 18 parable. And he seith[w] to hem, So and ȝe ben vnprudent, `or vnwyse[x]. Vndirstonden ȝe not, for al thing withoute forth entringe in to a[y] man, may not defoule 19 him? for it hath not entrid into his herte, but in to the[z] wombe, and bynethe it goth
20 out, purgynge alle metis. Sothli he[a] seide, For the[b] thingis that gon out of a[c] 21 man, tho[d] defoulen a man. Forsoth fro withynne, of the herte of men comen forth yuele thouȝtis, auoutries[e], fornicaciouns, wite, for[k] mannis sone hath power in erthe to for3yue synnes, he seith to the syke man in palasy, To thee I seie, ryse vp, take thi bed, and go in to thin hous.

25 And anon he risinge vp `bifore hem[l], took the bed in which he lay, and wente in to 26 his hous, magnyfyinge God. And greet wondir took alle men[m], and thei magnyfi-eden God; and thei[n] weren[o] fulfillid[p] with greet drede, seyinge, For we han seyn mer-27 ueilouse thingis to day. And aftir thes thingis Jhesu wente out, and sy3 a pupplican, Leeuy by name, sittinge at the tolbothe. And he seith[q] to him, Sue thou 28 me; and alle thingis forsaken, he risynge 29 suede him. And Leuy made to him a greet feeste in his hous; and there was a greet cumpanye of pupplicans, and of othere that weren with hem, sittinge at 30 the mete. And Farisees and the[r] scribis of hem grucchiden, seyinge to his disciplis, Whi eten 3e and drynken with pup-31 plicans and synful men? And Jhesu answeringe seith to hem[s], Thei that ben hoole han no[t] nede to a leche, but thei 32 that han yuele; sothli I cam not to[u]

This is[b] Joon euangelist[c], oon of the[d] disciplis of the Lord, the which is[e] a virgyn chosun of God, whom God clepide fro the sposeilis, whanne he wolde be weddid; and double witnesse[f] of virginyte is ȝouun to hym in the gospel; in this that he is seid loued of God byfor othere disciplis, and God[g] hongynge in[h] the cros bitook his modir in kepyng to hym, that a virgyn schulde kepe a virgyn. This Joon in the gospel bigynneth aloone the werk of vncorruptible word, and witnessith, that the kyndeli sone of God is[i] maad man, and that[k] the liȝt was not takun of derknessis[l]; and he schewith the firste myracle, whiche God[m] dide at the weddyngis, to schewe where the Lord is preyed to the feeste, the[n] wyn of the[o] weddyngis owith to faile, that whanne elde thingis ben chaungid, alle newe thingis that ben ordeyned of Crist, appere. Joon wroot this gospel in Asie, aftir that he hadde writun the Apocalips in the ile of Pathmos; netheles he wroot the gospel aftir alle the[p] gospeleris, that also an[q] vncorruptible ende 'schulde be ȝoldun[r] bi a virgyn in the Apocalips to hym, to whom an vncorruptible bygynnyng is ȝouun in Genesis, in the bigynnyng of hooly scripture; for Crist seith in the Apocalips, Y am the bygynnyng and the[s] ende. And this Joon is[t] he, that knewe that the day of his departyng was comun; and he clepide togidere hise disciplis in Effesie, and schewide Crist bi many preuyngis of myraclis, and ȝede doun in to a doluyn place of his biriyng; and whanne he hadde maad preier, he was put to hise fadris, and was so[u] myche[v] without sorewe of deth, hou myche he is foundun cleene fro corrupcioun of fleisch.

He was not the liȝt, but that he 9 schulde bere witnessing of the[g] liȝt. It[h] was verri liȝt, which[i] liȝtneth[k] ech man 10 comynge into this world. He was in the world, and the world was maad bi him, 11 and the world knew him not. He cam in to his owne thingis, and hise receyueden 12 not him. Forsothe hou manye euere receyueden him, he ȝaf to[l] hem power for[m] to be maad the sones of God, to hem that 13 bileuen[n] in his name; whiche[o] not of blodis, nether of the will of fleisch, nether of the will of man, but ben born of God. 14 And the word, 'that is, Goddis sone[p], is maad fleisch, 'or man[q], and hath dwellid in vs, and we han seyn the glorie of him, the glorie as of the oon bigetun[r] of the fadir, the sone ful of grace, and of[s] 15 treuthe. John berith witnessing of him, and cryeth, seyinge, This 'it was[t], whom I seide, He that cometh[u] aftir me, is maad bifore me, for he was 'the formere 16 than I[v]; and of the plente of him we alle 17 han takun, and grace for grace. For the lawe is ȝouun by Moyses; forsoth grace 18 and treuthe is maad by Jhesu Crist. No man euere syȝ God, no but the oon bigetun[w] sone, that is in the[x] bosum[y] of the 19 fadir, he hath told out. And this is the witnessing of John, whanne Jewis senten fro Jerusalem prestis and dekenys to hym, that thei schulden axe him, Who art thou?

that thing that was maad. In hym was 4 lijf, and the lijf was the liȝt of men; and the[b] liȝt schyneth in derknessis, and 5 derknessis comprehendiden[c] not it. A 6 man was sent fro God, to whom the[d] name was Joon. This man cam in to 7 witnessyng, that he schulde bere witness- ing of the[e] liȝt, that alle men schulden bileue bi hym. He was not the[f] liȝt, but 8 that he schulde bere witnessing of the liȝt. There was a very liȝt, which liȝtneth 9 ech man that cometh in to this world. He was in the world, and the world was 10 maad bi hym, and the world knew hym not. He cam in to his owne thingis, 11 and hise resseyueden hym not. But hou 12 many euer resseyueden hym, he ȝaf to[ff] hem power to be maad the sones of God, to hem that bileueden[g] in his name; the whiche not[h] of bloodis, nether of the wille 13 of fleische, nether of the wille of man, but ben borun of God. And the word 14 was maad man, and dwellyde among vs, and we han seyn the glorie of hym, as the glorie of the[i] 'oon bigetun j sone of the fadir, ful of grace and of treuthe. Joon berith witnessyng of hym, and 15 crieth, and seith, This is[k], whom Y seide, He that schal come aftir me, is maad bifore me, for he was tofor[l] me; and of 16 the[m] plente of hym we alle han takun, and grace for grace. For the lawe was 17 ȝouun bi Moises; but grace and treuthe 'is maad[n] bi Jhesu Crist. No man sai 18 euer God, no[o] but the 'oon bigetun[p] sone, that is in the bosum of the fadir, he hath teld out. And this is the witnessyng of 19 Joon, whanne Jewis senten fro Jerusalem prestis and dekenes to hym, that thei schulden axe hym, Who art thou? He 20 entre a3en in to his modris[u] wombe, and 5 be born a3ein? Jhesus answeride[v], Treuli, treuli, I seie to thee, no[w] but[x] a man schal be born a3en of watir, and of the Hooly Gost, he may not entre in to the kyngdom 6 of God. That that is born of fleisch, is fleisch; and that that is born of spirit[y], is 7 spirit. Wondre thou not, for I seye[z] to thee, It bihoueth 3ou for[a] to be born a3ein.

8 The spirit brethith[b] wher it[c] wole, and thou heerist his vois, but thou wost not, fro whennis he[d] cometh, or whidir he[e] goth; so is ech man that is borun of the 9 spirit. Nycodeme answeride, and seide to him, Hou mown thes thingis be don?
10 Jhesu answeride, and seyde to him, 'Art thou[f] a maistir in Israel, and knowist not 11 thes thingis? Treuli, treuli, I seye to thee, for that that[g] we witen, we speken, and in his name, seynge his signes that he dide. But Jhesus trowide not hym silf 24 to hem, for he knewe alle men; and for 25 it was not nede to hym, that ony man schulde bere witnessyng[g], for he wiste, what was in man.

CAP. III.

And there was a man of the Farisees, 1
Nychodeme bi name, a prince of the[h] Jewis. And he cam to Jhesu bi ni3t, 2 and seide to hym, Rabi, we witen, that thou art comun fro God maister[i]; for no man may do these signes[k], that thou doist, but God be with hym. Jhesus 3 answerde, and seide to hym, Treuli, treuli, Y seie to thee, but a man be borun a3en, he may not se the kyngdom of God.
Nychodeme seide to hym, Hou may 4 a man be borun, whanne he is eeld? whether[l] he may entre a3en[m] in to his modris[n] wombe, and be borun a3en?
Jhesus answeride, Treuli, treuli, Y seie 5 to thee, but a man be borun a3en of watir, and of the Hooli Goost, he may not entre in to the kyngdom of God.
'That that[nn] is borun of the[o] fleisch, is 6 fleisch; and 'that that[oo] is borun of spirit[p], is spirit. Wondre thou not, for Y seide 7 to thee, It bihoueth 3ou to be borun a3en.
The[q] spirit brethith where he wole, and 8 thou herist his vois, but thou wost not, fro whennus he[qq] cometh, ne whidir he goith; so is ech man that is borun of the spirit. Nychodeme answeride, and seide 9 to hym, Hou moun these thingis be don?
Jhesus answeride, and seide to hym, Thou 10 art a maister in Israel, and knowist not these thingis? Treuli, treuli, Y seie to 11 to him, Lord, I haue not a man that whanne the water 'schal be troublid[l], he sende me in to the sisterne; forsoth the while I com, another goth down bifore 8 me. Jhesu seith to him, Ryse vp, taak 9 thi bed, and wandre. And a non the man is maad hool, and took vp his bed, and wandride. And saboth was in that 10 day. Therfore the Jewis seyden to him that was maad hool, It is saboth, it is not leefful to thee, for[m] to take thi bed.

11 He answeride to hem, He that maade me hool[n], seide to me, Taak thi bed, and hadde seyn hym liggynge, and hadde knowun, that he hadde myche tyme, he seith to hym, Wolt thou be maad hool?

The sijk man answerde to hym, Lord, 7 Y haue no man, that whanne the watir goith doun bifor me. Jhesus seith to 8 hym, Rise vp, take thi bed, and go.

And anoon the man was maad hool, and 9 took vp[vv] his bed, and wente forth. And it was sabat in that dai. Therfor the 10 Jewis seiden to him that was maad hool, It is sabat, it[w] is not leueful to thee, to now, and I worche[x]. Therfore thanne the Jewis sou3ten more for[y] to slee hym, for not oonly he brak the saboth, but and[z] he seide his fadir God, makinge him euene to God. And so Jhesu answeride, and seide to hem, Treuli, treuli, I seie to 3ou, the sone may not of him silf do ony thing, no[a] but that[b] thing that he schal se the fadir doynge; what euere thingis sothli he doith, thes thingis and the sone also doith. Forsothe the fadir loueth the sone, and schewith to him alle thingis that he doith; and he schal schewe to him more[c] workis than thes, that 3e wondre. Therfor Jhesus answerde, and seide to hem, Treuli, treuli, Y seye to 3ou, the sone may not of hym silf do ony thing, but that thing that he seeth the fadir doynge; for what euere thingis he doith, the sone doith in lijk maner tho thingis. For the fadir loueth the sone, and schewith to[b] hym alle thingis that he doith; and he schal schewe to hym grettere werkis than these, that 3e wondren. For as the fadir reisith deed men, and quykeneth, so the sone quykeneth whom he wole. For nethir the fadir iugith ony man, but hath 3ouun ech[bb] doom to the sone, that alle men onoure the sone, as thei onouren the fadir. seiden thes thingis, for thei dredden Jewis[x]; forsoth now the Jewis `hadden conspirid[y], that if ony man knowlechide[z] him Crist, he schulde be don[a] out of the Nai, but he is lijc hym. But he seide, 10 That[k] Y am. Therfor thei seiden to hym, Hou ben thin i3en openyd? He 11 answerde, Thilke man, that is seid Jhesus, made clei, and anoyntide myn i3en, and seide[l] to me, Go thou to the watre of Siloe, and wassche; and Y wente, and wasschide, and say. And thei seiden to 12 hym, Where is he? He seide, Y woot not. Thei leden hym that was blynd to 13 the Farisees. And it was sabat, whanne 14 Jhesus made cley, and openyde hise i3en.

Eft the Farisees axiden hym, hou he 15 hadde seyn. And he seide to hem, He leide to me cley on the i3en; and Y wasschide, and Y se. Therfor summe of 16 the Fariseis seiden[m], This man is not of God, that kepith not the sabat. Othere men seiden, Hou may a synful man do these signes. And strijf was[n] among hem. Therfor thei seien[nn] eftsoone to 17 the blynd man, What seist thou of hym, that openyde thin i3en? And he seide, That he is a prophete. Therfor Jewis[o] 18 bileueden[p] not of[pp] hym, that he was

CAP. X.

Treuli, treuli, Y seie to ȝou, he that 1 cometh not in by the dore in to the foold of scheep, but stieth bi another weie, is a nyȝt theef and a dai theef. But 2 he that entrith bi the dore, is the scheepherde of the scheep. To[i] this the porter 3 openeth, and the scheep heren his vois, and he clepith his owne scheep bi name, and ledith hem out. And whanne he 4 hath don[k] out his owne scheep, he goith bifor hem, and the scheep suen hym; for thei knowun his vois. But thei suen not 5 an alien, but fleen from hym; for thei han not knowun the vois of aliens. Jhe- 6 sus seide to hem this prouerbe; but thei knewen not what he spak to hem. Ther- 7 for Jhesus seide to hem eftsoone, Treuli, treuli, Y seie to ȝou, that[l] Y am the[m] dore of the scheep. As many as han[n] 8 come, weren nyȝt theues and day theues, but the scheep herden not hem. Y am 9 the dore. If ony man schal entre bi me, he schal be sauyd; and he schal go ynne, and schal go out, and he schal fynde lesewis. A nyȝt theef cometh not, but 10 that he stele, sle, and leese; and Y cam, that thei han lijf, and haue more plenteousli. I am a good scheepherde; a 11 good scheepherde ȝyueth his lijf for hise scheep. But an hirid hyne, and that is 12 not the[o] scheepherde, whos ben not the scheep his owne, seeth a wolf comynge, and he leeueth the scheep, and fleeth; and the wolf rauyschith, and disparplith the scheep. And the hirid hyne fleeth, 13 in 3ou; as a braunche may not make fruyt of it silf, but it dwelle in the vyne, so nether 3e, but 3e dwelle in me. Y am 5 a[q] vyne, 3e[r] the[s] braunchis. Who that dwellith in me, and Y in hym, this[t] berith myche fruyt, for with outen me 3e moun no thing do. If ony man dwell- 6 ith not in me, he schal be caste out as a braunche, and schal wexe drie; and thei schulen gadere hym, and thei schulen caste hym in to the fier, and he brenneth[u]. If 3e dwellen in me, and my 7 wordis dwelle in 3ou, what euer thing 3e wolen, 3e schulen axe, and it schal be don to 3ou. In this thing my fadir is 8 clarified, that 3e brynge forth ful myche fruyt, and that 3e be maad my disciplis. As my fadir louede me, Y[v] haue loued 9 3ou; dwelle 3e in my loue. If 3e kepen[w] 10 my comaundementis, 3e schulen dwelle in my loue; as Y haue kept the comaundementis of my fadir, and Y[x] dwelle[y] in his loue. These thingis Y 11 spak to 3ou, that my ioye[z] be in 3ou, and 3oure ioye be fulfillid[a]. This is my co- 12 maundement, that 3e loue togidere, as Y louede[b] 3ou. No man hath more loue 13 than this, that a man putte his lijf for hise freendis. 3e[c] ben my freendis 14 if 3e doen tho thingis, that Y comaunde to 3ou. Now Y schal not clepe[d] 3ou 15 of Cayphas[a] wyf, that was bischop of that 14 3eer. Sothli it was Cayphas, that 3af counceil to the Jewis, that it spedith o[b] 15 man for[c] to deie for the peple. Therfore[d] Symount Petre suede Jhesu, and another disciple; forsoth thilke[e] disciple was knowun to the bischop. And he entride yn with Jhesu, in to the halle of the 16 bischop; sothly Petre stood at the dore withoute forth. Therfore the tothir[f] disciple, that was knowun to the bischop, wente out, and seide to the womman kep-17 inge the dore, and ledde yn Petre. Therfore the handmayde[g], kepere of the dore, seide to Petre, Wher[h] and thou art of the 18 not. Forsoth the seruauntis and mynystris[i] stooden at the colis, for it was coold, and thei warmyden hem; sothli and Petre was with hem, stondinge and warmynge 19 him. Therfore the bischop axide Jhesu 20 of his disciplis, and of his teching. Jhesu answeride to him, I haue spokun opynly

22 thingis I haue seyd. Whanne he hadde seid thes thingis, oon of the mynystris stondinge ny3, 3af a boffat to Jhesu, seyinge, Answerist thou so to the byschop?
23 Jhesu answeride to him, If I haue spokun yuele, bere thou witnessing of yuel; sothli the bischop, and kittide[b] of his ri3t eer.

And the name of the seruaunt was Malcus. Therfor Jhesus seide to Petre, Putte 11 thou thi swerd in to thi schethe; wolt thou not, that[c] Y drynke the cuppe, that my fadir 3af to me? Therfor the cum- 12 penye of kny3tis, and the tribune, and the[d] mynystris of the Jewis, token Jhesu, and bounden hym, and ledden hym 13 first to Annas; for he was fadir of Caifas wijf, that was bischop of that 3eer. And 14 it was Caifas, that 3af counsel to the Jewis, that it spedith, that o man die for the puple. But Symount Petre suede 15 Jhesu, and another disciple; and thilke disciple was knowun to the bischop.
And he entride with Jhesu, in to the halle of the bischop; but Petre stood at 16 the dore with outforth. Therfor `the tother[e] disciple, that was knowun to the bischop, wente out, and seide to the womman that kepte the dore, and brou3te in Petre. And the damysel, kepere of the 17 dore, seide to Petre, Whether thou art also of this mannys disciplis? He seide, Y am not. And the seruantis and 18 mynystris stooden at the coolis, for it was coold, and thei warmyden hem; and Petre was with hem, stondynge sente hym boundun to Caifas, the bischop. And Symount Petre stood, and 25 warmyde him; and thei seiden to hym, Whether also thou art his disciple? He denyede, and seide, Y am not. Oon of 26 the bischops seruantis, cosyn of[i] hym, whos eere Petre kitte of, seide, Sa3 Y

† Romayns ben thei, that[b] of Jewis and of[c] hethene men gaderid[d] to gidere, bileeueden[e] in[f] Crist. And the cause of this[g] sendinge of the[h] pistil[i] of Poulj is this, that whanne strijf was risen among hem silf, thei desiriden to sette hem silf ech aboue othere in worschip. For the Jewis seiden, We ben the peple of God, which[k] he hath loued and norischid fro the bigynnynge[l]; we[m] ben circumcidid; and we[n] comen by dissent of Abrahams kynde, and holy lynage[o]; and herfore[p] God was oonly knowen at[q] Judee. We[r] weren delyuerd out of Egipt with tokenes and vertues of God, and passiden the see with drie foot, whanne moost heuy floodis drenchiden oure enemyes. To[s] us also[t] God reynede doun aungils mete in[u] desert, and mynystride an[v] heuenly foode 'to us[w], as to hise owne sones; and a piler of cloude[ww] and of fier wente bifore us day and nyȝt, for it schulde schewe to[x] us 'oure passage[y], ther was[z] no wey vsid. Also thouȝ we ben stille of alle[zz] benfetis wrouȝt aboute us, we weren oonly worthi to take the lawe of God, and to heere the vois of God spekinge, and to[a] knowe his owne[b] wil. In which lawe Crist was bihote to us, to whom he himsilf witnesside[c] to come, and seide, I cam not[d] but[e] to the scheep, that 'han perischid[f] of the hous of Israel. And[g] sithen he clepith[h] ȝou houndis rather than men, 'therfore it is[i] good equite, that ȝe that this day first han forsake ȝoure mawmettis, to whom ȝe han[k] serued fro the bigynnynge, be[l] maad[ll] nowe[m] euene to us in worschip, but[n] rather[o] ben[p] ȝe ordeyned[q] in the stide of prosolitis and vndirlingis[r], bothe bi autorite of lawe[s] and of custum? Also Romayns weren of Jewis and hethene men, and bileeueden to Crist; and by proude stryf thei wolden enhaunce hem silf ech part aboue othere. For whi Jewis seiden, We ben the peple of God, whiche he louede and norischide fro the bigynnyng; we ben circumcidid, and camen of the kyn and holy generacioun of Abraham; and God was knowen first oonly at Jewis. We weren delyuered fro Egipt by myraclis and vertues of God, and passiden the reed see with drie foot, whan greuouse wawis drenchiden oure enemyes; and reynede to us manna in the desert, and mynystride heuenly mete to vs, as to hise sonys. By day and nyȝt God ȝede bifore vs in a piler of cloude and of fier, to schewe weye to vs in the place without weye. And that we holde stille othere benefices of God aboute vs, we aloone weren worthi to take the lawe of God, and to heere the voys of the Lord spekynge, and to knowe his wille; in which lawe Crist was bihiȝte to vs. Also he witnesside, that he hymsilf was comen to vs, and seide, Y cam not, no but to the scheep of the hous of Israel, that weren perischide, whan he clepide ȝou doggis rather than men. Therfor whether it is riȝtful, that ȝe that forsaken ydols to day, whiche ȝe serueden at the bigynnyng, be comparisond to vs, and be not rather arettid in to the place of comelynges, by auctorite of the lawe and by custome? And ȝe disserueden not this, no but for Goddis mercy, which is euer large, wolde resseyue ȝou to oure suynge, that is, to suc vs. Aȝenward hethene men answereden thus, In as myche as ȝe tellen gretter benefices of God anentis ȝou, by so myche ȝe schulen schewe, that ȝe ben gilty of gretter synne; for ȝe weren euer vnkynde to alle tho benefices. For with euere 'the more[b] 3e schulden schewe 3ou gilti of the grettir trespassis[c]; for in alle these benfetis 'that 3e tellen[d], 3e weren euermore vnkynde. For with the same feet that 3e passiden the drie see, 3e pleieden[e] and daunsiden[f] bifore 3oure mawmettis that 3e maden; and with the same mouth, that a litil bifore 3e[g] worschipiden God with song for slau3tir of 3oure enemyes, 3e axiden[h] 3oure mawmetis to be maad; and with thilke i3en that 3e weren wont to biholde God in cloud or in[i] fier, 3e biheelden inwardly in[k] 3oure mawmettis. Also aungels mete was to 3ou abhomynable; and euere 3e grucchiden a3ens the Lord in desert, desirynge to turne a3en in to Egipt, fro the[l] which God hadde brou3t '3ou out[m] with strong hond. What more? Thus 3oure fadris 'with ofte terrynge[n] stiriden[o] God to wraththe, so that alle dieden in desert, and no mo of the eeldre men but tweyne entriden in to the lond of biheeste. But wherto reherse we oolde thingis? sith[p] thou3 3e hadde neuere do these thingis, 3it of this aloone no man wolde deme 3ou worthi[pp] for3euenes[q], that[r] 3e wolde 'not resseyue oonly[s] oure Lord Jhesu Crist, that was euere[t] bihote to 3ou bi the vois[u] of profetis; but also 3e distruyeden him[v] with moost dispitous deeth. And on[w] him we bileeueden, as soone as we herden of him; and 3it ther was no thing profecied 'to us[x] bifore. Wherfore it is weel preued, that it schulde not be arettid to[y] a[z] rotid[a] malice of oure wil, that we serueden to mawmettis, but to oure vnkunnynge. For thilke same God that we folowe now, sikirli[b] we wolde haue folowid bifore[c], if we hadden rathir knowen as we knowen now. And truly if 3e boosten of nobley of kinde, as thou3[d] folowinge of gode maners made 3ou not rather Goddis sones than fleischly birthe, sikerly[e] Esau and Ismael, thou3 thei ben[f] of Abrahams lynage, thei ben not rikened among sones. And while[g] thei stryuen thus, the apostil[gg] putte him bitwene[h] as a[i] mene, distruynge alle her qwestiouns, as a good noumpere[j]; strecchinge forth the[k] hond to hem, and spekyng brou3te hem alle[l] to oon acoord; schewinge[m] noon of hem 'to be[n] saued thoru hise[o] owne meritis, but he preuede 'bothe the[p] peplis, 'that thei[q] hadden greuously trespassid.

Which Lord we bileeueden anoon, aftir that we knewen, thou3 no thing was bifore seid to vs of him. Wherby it is preued, that this, that we serueden ydols, schal not be aretted to hardnesse of synne, but to ignorannce. For we that snen'anoon the Lord knowen, wolden haue sued him in tyme passid, 3if we hadden knowe him bifore. And 3if 3e auaunten 3ou of the nobley of kyn, as 3if the suynge of vertues maketh not to be sones of seyntes, more than fleishly natiuite doth, forsothe Esau and Ismael, thou3 thei ben of the generacioun of Abraham, ben not arettid either noumbred with sones. 6 in alle folkis for his name, in[o] which[p] 7 and[q] 3e ben clepid[r] of Jhesu Crist, to alle that ben at Rome, the louede of God, clepid hooly, grace[s] to 3ou, and pees of God oure 8 fadir, and of the Lord Jhesu Crist. Firste sothely[t] I do thankyngis to my God, by Jhesu Crist, for alle 3ou, for 3our feith is 9 schewid in al the world. Forsoth God is a witnesse to me, to[u] whom I serue in my 10 spirit, in the gospel of his sone, for[v] with outen ceessinge I make mynde of 3ou bi the spirit of halewyng of the a3enrisyng of deed men, of Jhesu Crist oure Lord, bi whom we han resseyued grace 5 and the office of apostle, to obeie to the feith in alle folkis for his name, among 6 whiche 3e ben also clepid of Jhesu Crist, to alle that ben at Rome, derlyngis 7 of God, and clepid hooli, grace to 3ou, and pees of God oure fadir, and of the Lord Jhesu Crist. First Y do thank- 8 yngis to my God, bi Jhesu Crist, for alle 3ou, for 3oure feith is schewid in[i] al the world. For God is a witnesse to me, to 9 whom Y serue in my spirit, in the gospel of his sone, that with outen ceessyng Y 10 make mynde of 3ou euere in my preieris, and biseche, if in ony maner sum tyme Y haue a[k] spedi weie in the wille of God to come to 3ou. For Y desire to 11 se 3ou, to parten sumwhat[l] of spiritual grace, that 3e be confermyd, that is, to 12 be coumfortid togidere in 3ou, bi feith that is bothe 3oure and myn togidere.

And, britheren, Y nyle, that 3e vn- 13
